First Responders Educational Scholarship

APPLICATION

ABOUT THE SCHOLARSHIP

The Security Industry Association (SIA), has developed a scholarship program to benefit first responders. SIA understands that municipal budgets are tight and that employees may be looking for find way supplemental resources to help cover needed training.

Scholarships are to be awarded to volunteer or publicly paid first responders (defined as Police, EMT emergency personnel, Fire Fighters, and Hazmat teams) and are to be applied to security and life safety related courses. Monies will be awarded for tuitions and required materials from courses, but not for optional materials, travel expenses, or educational initiatives not related to the immediate subject of work of first responders. Monies awarded by scholarship will be paid directly to the institution where classes are held and not to the individual receiving the scholarship. The maximum award per student will not exceed $500. In cases of a course being less than this amount the student's full curriculum will be paid by SIA's scholarship fund, but the student does not receive the extra funds. In cases where a course if of greater than $500 the student is responsible for any costs above and beyond that sum. Students may submit to have books or materials that are mandatory for any course to be covered.
